

White Crest Beach

Artist Name: Natalie Meulenbroek (She/Her)

What prompted you to create this piece? I am tremendously captivated by water and the way light flits and dances atop it — no two moments are the same. The ocean is one of my favorite subjects, though I discover inspiration everywhere. In my work, and this painting specifically, I seek to capture nostalgic memories of summer’s warm glow and luminescence. I adore spending hours observing the ocean, the sunrise, and watching the waves crash over and over again. White Crest Beach was a calling for me to preserve a moment of New England’s coastal beauty.

Biography: Natalie is an artist based in Boston, MA and the seacoast of New Hampshire. She is currently studying studio art at the School of Museum of Fine Arts at Tufts University. Natalie has found great solace in the medium of oil painting, always seeking to discover unique qualities of color, light, and shadow. However, she loves to experiment in a variety of mediums, including charcoal, watercolor, oil pastel, and colored pencil. Her work has been exhibited and sold at the New Hampshire Art Association’s Robert Lincoln Levy Gallery, the Sheafe Warehouse, and Lang’s Corner Provisions.
